Introduction

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) defines intimate partner violence (IPV) as actual or threatened physical, sexual, psychological, or stalking violence by current or former intimate partners (whether of the same or opposite sex). IPV is a major public health problem, reflected by both its prevalence and negative consequences. Researchers and prevention specialists are working to identify the factors that place intimate partners at risk for being victimized by or perpetrating violence, to find out which interventions are working, and to design more effective prevention programs.

National data suggest that IPV is perpetrated against both women and men, although most research indicates that women are more likely than men to be victimized by almost every type of IPV, including rape, physical assault, and stalking by an intimate partner (Tjaden and Thoennes 2000). The consequences of IPV are well documented and include substantial morbidity and mortality and physical and psychological health problems. Women are significantly more likely than men to be injured or killed by intimate partners. Approximately one in three females murdered in the United States is killed by a partner, whereas approximately one in twenty U.S. males murdered is killed by a partner (Puzone et al. 2000). Psychological consequences include posttraumatic stress disorder, depression, substance abuse, and suicidal behaviors (Caetano and Cunradi 2003; Campbell 2002; Coker et al. 2002; Hines and Malley Morrison 2001; Kaslow et al. 1998, 2002; Koss et al. 2003; Mechanic et al. 2000a.)

Purpose of the Compendium

This compendium provides researchers and prevention specialists with a compilation of tools designed to measure victimization from and perpetration of IPV. Many researchers are conducting studies to identify risk and protective factors for IPV and determine the consequences of victimization and perpetration. Others are working to design, implement, and evaluate interventions to reduce IPV victimization and perpetration. The ability to accurately measure IPV is critical for the success of these research and intervention activities (Bachman 2000; Saltzman 2004).

In 1999, CDC published Intimate Partner Violence Surveillance: Uniform Definitions and Recommended Data Elements to improve and standardize data collected on IPV (Saltzman et al. 1999). Uniform and consistent definitions allow researchers and practitioners to assess the true prevalence of IPV, compare findings across studies, and determine the effectiveness of interventions. This compendium takes the next step by providing information on numerous scales for reliable and valid measurement of IPV.

Researchers and practitioners may find it challenging to identify which of the available scales are appropriate for measuring a particular type of IPV. This compendium provides professionals who are addressing this problem with easy access to a set of tools with demonstrated reliability and validity for measuring the self-reported incidence and prevalence of IPV victimization and perpetration. The compendium also identifies which scales are appropriate for measuring a given type of IPV.

What is Included in the Compendium?

Although this compendium includes more than 20 scales, it is not intended to be an exhaustive listing of available measures. The information is presented to help researchers and practitioners make informed decisions when choosing scales to use in their work. CDC does not endorse any particular scale presented in the compendium.

CDC used specific procedures to select scales for inclusion into the compendium. The process began with an intensive literature search and a review of articles published in violence-related and other journals over the past five years. This search identified a wide range of scales; CDC used several criteria to select a subset for inclusion in the compendium.

Scales had to be:

- published in a peer-reviewed journal or book,
- assessed for psychometric characteristics (with information on reliability, validity, or sensitivity available),
- created by the authors and not adapted from a preexisting scale,
- developed for research purposes,
- designed for direct participant response, and
- intended to assess actual violence rather than correlates, risk factors, or consequences of IPV.

If the original authors modified a scale and the modified version had published psychometric information, CDC included only the updated version. Those scales that were developed for screening or forensic purposes and scales completed by clinicians or through observational methods were excluded.

CDC consulted with a group of IPV research experts to review the instruments included in this compendium. To be as inclusive as possible of scales measuring all types of IPV, CDC selected experts who specialized in each of the four types of IPV (physical, sexual, psychological/emotional, and stalking).

This compendium includes a greater number of scales that assess victimization than those that assess perpetration. This likely reflects the field's historical focus on victimization. With the shift to research examining risk factors and evaluating perpetration interventions, it is likely that more scales assessing IPV perpetration will be forthcoming.

How is the Compendium Organized?

This compendium features scales measuring both victimization from and perpetration of IPV. Victimization scales are organized by physical violence victimization (Section A), sexual violence victimization (Section B), psychological/emotional abuse victimization (Section C), and stalking victimization (Section D). Perpetration scales are organized by physical violence perpetration (Section E), sexual violence perpetration (Section F), psychological/emotional abuse perpetration (Section G), and stalking perpetration (Section H).

Each section begins with a table summarizing key information on each scale. The tables present information on the scale characteristics, target group or intended population, psychometric properties, authors, and year of publication.

For each included scale, the compendium provides scale items, response categories, scoring instructions, and the instructions provided to respondents at the beginning of the scale. Because all of the scales in this compendium have been previously published, CDC obtained permission to reprint each one from scale authors or publishing companies (when a scale was published in full in a journal). In some cases, publishers or authors required that CDC include a statement about a scale's copyright status. In those cases, this information is provided at the end of the scale. For two scales, publishers allowed only sample items to be reprinted. The full scales are available for purchase by contacting the publisher.

Some of the scales assess more than one type of violence. For example, a scale may assess both physical and psychological victimization. In these instances, the scale is repeated in the relevant sections, and the information on the target group and scale developer is the same. Psychometric data for each subscale are presented in the summary tables that open each section. To allow researchers to examine scale items for each type of violence in the context of the full scale, the complete scale is provided in each relevant category; item numbers pertaining to the relevant subscale are listed below each scale.

How to Use This Compendium

When selecting IPV scales for use, researchers should consider measurement issues such as how a particular scale operationally defines violence, how an intimate partner is defined, and what reporting time frame is used. The scales presented in this compendium assess different types of IPV. Some scales include items that assess only one type of violence, such as sexual violence or psychological abuse. Other scales are intended to assess more than one type of violence. Some scales assess both victimization from and perpetration of multiple forms of violence.

IPV scales also vary in terms of the population they are intended to assess. For example, some scales are limited to abused women, whereas other scales are intended for any woman with a current or former intimate partner. Some scales can be used to report on IPV in a current or former relationship, whereas other scales are intended for reporting on IPV perpetrated by former partners.

Intimate partner violence affects all racial and ethnic groups, and certain types of IPV may be more prevalent among African Americans, Hispanics, and Native American or Alaskan Natives (Tjaden and Thoennes 2000; Field and Caetano 2004). However, most scales in this compendium were not developed specifically for use with these or other minority populations. In most cases, reliability and validity information was obtained from largely non-hispanic white populations. For these reasons, the language used in most of the scales in this compendium may need to be adapted to be culturally or linguistically appropriate for some minority populations.

Some scales in this document are intended for use with adults; others are intended for use with adolescents or with any age group. The summary tables include specific information on intended age targets when that information is available.

None of the scales included in this compendium provide psychometric data specifically for same-sex couples. Researchers who wish to use the scales with same-sex couples should pilot test the scales with same-sex populations first.

The scales in this compendium also use a variety of reporting time frames. Researchers will need to decide which scales best suit their own research purposes. For example, if a researcher is interested in determining the prevalence of IPV among a specific population, then a scale that uses a lifetime reporting period may be most appropriate. If a researcher is interested in evaluating the effects of an intervention designed to reduce IPV victimization or perpetration, then the reporting time frame would need to coincide with the timing of the intervention.

Future Considerations

In the last two decades, IPV researchers have made great progress. However, several key areas need more attention. First, more research is needed to develop and test measures to assess perpetration of the various types of IPV, particularly sexual violence. Further, the field knows very little about the reliability and validity of the scales included here when used with different racial and ethnic populations and with same-sex relationships. It is CDC's hope that this document will encourage researchers to validate IPV victimization and perpetration measures in these understudied populations.

Scoring Instructions

Physical abuse items include 6, 7, 14, 18, 20, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, and 30 (item 21 is not included in subscale computation). The mean score of these items is computed by summing the values of the items and dividing by the applicable number of items. Higher scores are indicative of greater physical abuse.

Scoring Instructions

Physical abuse scales include items 4, 13, 18, 22, 24, 36, 38, 45, 49, 54, and 60.

Although items 7, 15, 31, and 56 assess physical abuse, they were not included in the authors' psychometric analyses because either no raters in a card sort procedure agreed that they belonged in an abuse category or the items only attained a 50% agreement level.

A physical abuse scale score can be obtained by summing the frequency counts or by summing the severity ratings based on how upset respondent reported being. Higher scores are indicative of greater physical abuse

A5. Revised Conflict Tactics Scales (CTS-2)

No matter how well a couple gets along, there are times when they disagree, get annoyed with the other person, want different things from each other, or just have spats or fights because they are in a bad mood, are tired, or for some other reason. Couples also have many different ways of trying to settle their differences. This is a list of things that might happen when you have differences. Please circle how many times you did each of these things in the past year, and how many times your partner did them in the past year. If you or your partner did not do one of these things in the past year, but it happened before that, circle "7."

How often did this happen?

- | | |
|---------------------------------|--|
| 1 = Once in the past year | 5 = 11-20 times in the past year |
| 2 = Twice in the past year | 6 = More than 20 times in the past year |
| 3 = 3-5 times in the past year | 7 = Not in the past year, but it did happen before |
| 4 = 6-10 times in the past year | 0 = This has never happened |

Sample of 2 of the 12 physical assault scale items:

My partner pushed or shoved me. 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 0

My partner punched or hit me with something that could hurt. 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 0

The mean value can also be obtained by dividing the summed responses by the number of items (16). Higher scores are indicative of greater abuse. Scores can also be categorized such that "0" = no physical victimization, "1" = victimization occurred 1 to 3 times, and "2" indicates victimization occurred 3 or more times.

Scoring Instructions

Items are worded for a female respondent. For a male respondent, simply change the pronouns.

For less educated participants, adding the words mouth and bottom for oral and anal sex is recommended.

Items 20-40 comprise the acts of physical violence subscale (except for male respondents, where item 22 is indicative of threats of violence).

For female respondents, items 20-23 represent mild violence, items 24-28 represent minor violence, items 29-31 represent moderate violence, and items 32-40 represent serious violence.

For male respondents, items 20, 21, 23, and 27 represent mild violence, items 24, 25, 26, 28, and 34 represent minor violence, items 29, 30, 31, and 33 represent moderate violence, and items 32 and 35-40 represent serious violence.

Point values given in response to each item in the subscale are summed to create the subscale score. Higher scores are indicative of greater abuse.

Scoring Instructions

Sexual abuse scale includes items 9, 11, 12, 14, 20, 37, 42, 43, 46, 47, 48, and 55.

Although items 2, 5, and 53 assess sexual abuse, they were not included in the authors’ psychometric analyses because either no raters in a card sort procedure agreed that they belonged in an abuse category or they only attained a 50% agreement level.

A sexual abuse scale score can be obtained by summing the frequency counts or by summing the severity ratings based on how upset respondent reported being. Higher scores are indicative of greater sexual abuse.

B2. National Women's Study (NWS)/ National Violence Against Women Survey (NVAWS)

1. [Female respondents only] Has a man or boy ever made you have sex by using force or threatening to harm you or someone close to you? Just so there is no mistake, by sex we mean putting his penis in your vagina.
2. Has anyone, male or female, ever made you have oral sex by force or threat of force? Just so there is no mistake, by oral sex we mean that a man or boy put his penis in your mouth or someone, male or female, penetrated your vagina or anus with their mouth.
3. Has anyone ever made you have anal sex by using force or threat of force? Just so there is no mistake, by anal sex we mean that a man or boy put his penis in your anus.
4. Has anyone, male or female, ever put fingers or objects in your vagina or anus against your will or by using force or threats?
5. Has anyone, male or female, ever attempted to make you have vaginal, oral, or anal sex against your will but intercourse or penetration did not occur?

Note: Item 5 used in NVAWS but not NWS. Scale can be used to assess sexual violence perpetrated by non-intimates.

Scoring Instructions

An affirmative response to items 1, 2, 3, or 4 indicates that a respondent has been a victim of rape. An affirmative response to item 5 indicates that a respondent has been a victim of an attempted rape.

B3. Revised Conflict Tactics Scales (CTS-2)

No matter how well a couple gets along, there are times when they disagree, get annoyed with the other person, want different things from each other, or just have spats or fights because they are in a bad mood, are tired, or for some other reason. Couples also have many different ways of trying to settle their differences. This is a list of things that might happen when you have differences. Please circle how many times you did each of these things in the past year, and how many times your partner did them in the past year. If you or your partner did not do one of these things in the past year, but it happened before that, circle “7.”

How often did this happen?

- | | |
|---------------------------------|--|
| 1 = Once in the past year | 5 = 11–20 times in the past year |
| 2 = Twice in the past year | 6 = More than 20 times in the past year |
| 3 = 3–5 times in the past year | 7 = Not in the past year, but it did happen before |
| 4 = 6–10 times in the past year | 0 = This has never happened |

Sample of 2 of the 7 sexual coercion scale items:

My partner used force to make me have oral or anal sex. 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 0

My partner insisted that I have sex when I didn't want to
(but did not use physical force). 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 0

Scoring Instructions

Items are worded for a female respondent. For a male respondent, simply change the pronouns.

For less-educated participants, adding the words mouth and bottom for oral and anal sex is recommended.

Items 41-46 comprise the sexual aggression subscale for both male and female respondents.

Point values given in response to each item of the subscale are summed to create the subscale score. Higher scores are indicative of greater sexual abuse.

B6. Sexual Victimization of College Women

Women experience a wide range of unwanted sexual experiences in college. Women do not always report unwanted sexual experiences to the police or discuss them with family and friends. The person making the advances is not always a stranger, but can be a friend, boyfriend, fellow student, professor, teaching assistant, supervisor, coworker, somebody you meet off campus, or even a family member. The experience could occur anywhere: on- or off-campus in your residence, in your place of employment, or in a public place. You could be awake, or you could be asleep, unconscious, drunk, or otherwise incapacitated. Please keep this in mind as you answer the questions.

Now, I'm going to ask you about different types of unwanted sexual experiences you may have experienced since school began in the Fall. Because of the nature of the unwanted sexual experiences, the language may seem graphic to you. However, this is the only way to assess accurately whether or not the women in this study have had such experiences. You only have to answer "yes" or "no."

1. Since school began in the Fall, has anyone made you have sexual intercourse by using force or threatening to harm you or someone close to you? Just so there is no mistake, by intercourse I mean putting a penis in your vagina.
2. Since school began in the Fall, has anyone made you have oral sex by force or threat of harm? By oral sex, I mean did someone's mouth or tongue make contact with your vagina or anus or did your mouth or tongue make contact with someone else's genitals or anus.
3. Since school began in the Fall, has anyone made you have anal sex by force or threat of harm? By anal sex, I mean putting a penis in your anus or rectum.
4. Since school began in the Fall, has anyone ever used force or threat of harm to sexually penetrate you with a foreign object? By this, I mean for example, placing a bottle or finger in your vagina or anus?
5. Since school began in the Fall, has anyone attempted but not succeeded in making you take part in any of the unwanted sexual experiences that I have just asked you about? For example, did anyone threaten or try but not succeed to have vaginal, oral, or anal sex with you or try unsuccessfully to penetrate your vagina or anus with a foreign object or finger?
6. Not counting the types of sexual contact already mentioned, have you experienced any unwanted or uninvited touching of a sexual nature since school began in the Fall? This includes forced kissing, touching of private parts, grapping, fondling, and rubbing up against you in a sexual way, even if it is over your clothes. Remember this could include anyone from strangers to people you know well. Have any incidents of unwanted or uninvited touching of a sexual nature happened to you since school began in the Fall?
7. Since school began in the Fall, has anyone attempted or threatened but not succeeded in unwanted or uninvited touching of a sexual nature?
8. I have been asking you about unwanted sexual contact that involved force or threats of force against you. Sometimes unwanted sexual contact may be attempted using threats of nonphysical punishment, promises of rewards if you complied sexually, or simply continual verbal pressure.

Since school began in the Fall, has anyone made or tried to make you have sexual intercourse or sexual contact when you did not want to by making threats of nonphysical punishment such as lowering a grade, being demoted or fired from a job, damaging your reputation, or being excluded from a group for failure to comply with requests for any type of sexual activity?

9. Since school began in the Fall, has anyone made or tried to make you have sexual intercourse or sexual contact when you did not want to by making promises of rewards such as raising a grade, being hired or promoted, being given a ride or class notes, or getting help with course work from a fellow student if you complied sexually?
10. Since school began in the Fall, has anyone made or tried to make you have sexual intercourse or sexual contact when you did not want to by simply being overwhelmed by someone's continual pestering and verbal pressure?
11. Not counting any incidents we have already discussed, have you experienced any other type of unwanted or uninvited sexual contact since school began in the Fall? Remember, this could include sexual experiences that may or may not have been reported to the police or other officials, which were the strangers or people you know, in a variety of locations both on- and off-campus, and while you were awake or when you were asleep, drunk, or otherwise incapacitated.

Note: Scale can be used to assess sexual violence perpetrated by non-intimates.

Scoring Instructions

Each question is asked using a “yes-no” response set. When a respondent reports that she has experienced the type of behavior asked about in the screen question, she is asked “How many different incidents of [type of sexual victimization] happened to you since school began in the Fall? For every different incident, the interviewer completes an incident report. In this report, the respondent is asked information (1) to determine exactly what type(s) of sexual victimization occurred and to what degree (completed, attempted, or threatened), (2) to document information about the characteristics of the incident, and (3) to understand the reporting behaviors of the victim.

A hierarchical scoring system is used, such that incidents are classified according to the most severe type of sexual victimization. For example, if a victim reports experiencing both forced sexual intercourse and attempted sexual coercion during the same incident, the incident should be classified as forced sexual intercourse.

Scoring Instructions

Psychological abuse scales include items 3, 8, 16, 19, 21, 25, 26, 27, 29, 34, 39, 40, 50, 57, and 58.

Verbal abuse scales include items 6, 10, 17, 23, 28, 30, 32, 33, 35, 41, 44, 51, 52, and 59.

Although item 1 assesses verbal abuse, it was not included in the authors' psychometric analyses because either no raters in a card sort procedure agreed that it belonged in an abuse category or the item only attained a 50% agreement level.

Psychological and verbal abuse scale scores can be obtained by summing the frequency counts or by summing the severity ratings.

Higher scores are indicative of greater psychological and verbal abuse.

C5. Multidimensional Measure of Emotional Abuse

The following questions ask about the relationship with your partner or ex-partner. Please report how often each of these things has happened in the last six months. Please circle a number using the scale below to indicate how often you have done each of the following things, and a number to indicate how often your partner has done each of the following things. Indicate how many times you have done this where it says “you,” and how many times your partner has done this where it says “your partner.” If you or your partner did not do one of these things in the past 6 months, but it has happened before that, circle “7.”

1 = Once 4 = 6–10 times 7 = Never in the past six months, but it has happened before.

 3 = 3–5 times 6 = More than 20 times

Scoring Instructions

Items can be used to create one total scale score and four subscale scores. The 7-item Restrictive Engulfment subscale consists of items 1–7. The 7-item Denigration subscale consists of items 8–14. The 7-item Hostile Withdrawal subscale consists of items 15–21. The 7-item Dominance/Intimidation subscale consists of items 22–28.

Two types of scores for the total scale score and for the subscale scores can be computed. One scoring method involves assigning a score of 0 if the respondent reports that her partner has never done a particular act, and a score of 1 if a respondent reports that her partner has done a particular act. A second scoring method involves using frequency counts in specific intervals of time. In this scoring method, a score of 7 is recoded to 0, and then the 0–6 point items are summed. Higher scores are indicative of greater levels of emotional abuse.

C10. Revised Conflict Tactics Scales (CTS-2)

No matter how well a couple gets along, there are times when they disagree, get annoyed with the other person, want different things from each other, or just have spats or fights because they are in a bad mood, are tired, or for some other reason. Couples also have many different ways of trying to settle their differences. This is a list of things that might happen when you have differences. Please circle how many times you did each of these things in the past year, and how many times your partner did them in the past year. If you or your partner did not do one of these things in the past year, but it happened before that, circle “7.”

How often did this happen?

- 1 = Once in the past year

2 = Twice in the past year

3 = 3–5 times in the past year

4 = 6–10 times in the past year
- 5 = 11–20 times in the past year

6 = More than 20 times in the past year

7 = Not in the past year, but it did happen before

0 = This has never happened

Sample of 2 of the 8 psychological aggression scale items:

D2. Harassment in Abusive Relationships: A Self-Report Scale (HARASS)

Harassment in Abusive Relationships: A Self-report Scale

Many women are harassed in relationships with their abusive partners, especially if the women are trying to end the relationship. You may be experiencing harassment. This instrument is designed to measure harassment of women who are in abusive relationships or who are in the process of leaving abusive relationships. By completing this questionnaire, you may better understand harassment in your life. If you have any questions, please talk with the service provider who gave you this tool.

Harassment is defined as: a persistent pattern of behavior by an intimate partner that is intended to bother, annoy, trap, emotionally wear down, threaten, frighten, terrify and/or coerce a woman with the overall intent to control her choices and behavior about leaving an abusive relationship.

There are no right or wrong answers. Do not put your name on the form. The instrument takes about 10 minutes to complete.

For each item, circle the number that best describes how often the behavior occurred. Next, rate how distressing the behavior is to you. If the behavior has never occurred, circle 0 (NEVER) and go to the next question. If the question does not apply to you, circle NA (NOT APPLICABLE). If you are still in the relationship please circle below MY PARTNER. If you have left the relationship, please circle below MY FORMER PARTNER.

Scoring Instructions

Items can be grouped into three subscales. Stalking-like behaviors subscale includes items 2, 3, 6, 8, 9, 12, 15, 19, and 22; Threatening behaviors subscale includes items 1, 4, 7, 10, 14, 16, 20, and 21. Controlling-his-commodities subscale includes items 5, 11, 13, 17, 18, and 23. On the OFTEN scale, response options 1–4 (rarely through frequently) are coded as 1 and are indicative of harassment. 0 = 0. On the DISTRESS Scale, response options 1–4 (slightly disturbing to very disturbing) are coded as 1 and are indicative of distress. 0 = 0.

D3. National Violence Against Women Survey (NVAWS)

1. I'd like to ask you some questions about following or harassment you may have experienced on more than one occasion by strangers, friends, relatives, or even husbands (wives), and partners. Not including bill collectors, telephone solicitors, or other sales people, has anyone, male or female, ever:
 - a. Followed or spied on you?
 - b. Sent you unsolicited letters or written correspondence?
 - c. Made unsolicited phone calls to you?
 - d. Stood outside your home, school, or workplace?
 - e. Showed up at places you were even though he or she had no business being there?
 - f. Left unwanted items for you to find?
 - g. Tried to communicate in other ways against your will?
 - h. Vandalized your property or destroyed something you loved?

If respondent answered "yes" to one or more of the above questions, then she/he is asked:

2. Has anyone ever done any of these things to you on more than one occasion?

If respondent reported being victimized on more than one occasion, he/she is asked the following questions:

3. How frightened were you by these things [perpetrator] did to you?
 - a. very frightened?
 - b. somewhat frightened?
 - c. just a little frightened?
 - d. not really frightened?
4. Did you ever believe you or someone close to you would be seriously harmed or killed when [perpetrator] was following or harassing you?

Note: Scale can be used to assess stalking by non-partners.

Scoring Instructions

To be considered a stalking victim, respondent has to report experiencing one or more of the stalking behaviors (items a–h) on more than one occasion (#2) and reports having been very frightened or feared bodily harm to them or someone close to them (#3 and #4).

D4. Obsessive Relational Intrusion (ORI)

We are interested in a situation we are calling relational intrusion. Relational intrusion occurs when someone with whom you have been acquainted, however slightly, persistently invades your time, space, property, or self in undesired ways in an effort to continue or maintain a relationship despite your wishes to the contrary. In short, it is a form of consistent and unwanted pursuit of a relationship. It is similar to stalking, but may not be as extreme or as threatening as the reports you may have heard or seen in the media. Our interest is in discovering how common these experiences are, and the kinds of things people do in response to them. The intruder might have been a former boyfriend or girlfriend, a classmate, or even a work acquaintance. But, in some way or another, it should be someone who, in your own mind, you clearly did not want to have continuing a relationship with you in these ways. In some instances, you may have to report on your suspicion rather than certainty (e.g., someone who calls you and hangs up immediately might be a random caller, rather than someone with whom you have been acquainted).

To what extent have you ever experienced any of the following behaviors in a context in which you did not want them to, regardless of how many people may have engaged in them? Respond on the following scale:

Read each item carefully and circle the appropriate response for every item:

- 0 = Never
- 1 = Once since the age of 18
- 2 = Rarely (i.e., 2 to 4 times since the age of 18)
- 3 = Sometimes (i.e., 5 to 9 times since the age of 18)

Items can be summed to create an overall index of stalking victimization. Subscales can also be used. The Pursuit subscale includes items 11, 13, 17, 24, 31, 35, 54, and 57. The Violation subscale includes items 26, 29, 47, and 63. The Threat subscale includes items 1, 5, 6, 7, 30, 36, 39, 59, and 62. The Hyperintimacy subscale includes items 3, 14, 19, 23, 33, 42, 44, 48, 49, 50, 51, 53, and 60. The other items did not load on a specific factor. D5. Obsessive Relational Intrusion (ORI)—Short Form

People often pursue intimate relationships without realizing that the person being pursued does not want such a relationship. These pursuers may want friendship, or romantic intimacy, or perhaps just recognition. In addition, they often do things that do not appear in normal circumstances to be intimate, such as invading your privacy, intruding into your life, and/or making threats (e.g., “if you don’t go out with me, I’ll kill myself”), or refusing to let go. We are interested in finding out if you have ever experienced such a “relationship,” and what kinds of actions this pursuer displayed.

In your lifetime, how often, if at all, has anyone ever obsessively pursued you over a period of time for the purpose of establishing an intimate relationship that you did NOT want? That is,...

Scoring Instructions

Two subscales can be created from the items. The first subscale, referred to as the Violent Behavior subscale, includes items 1–12. The second subscale, referred to as the Harassing Behavior subscale, includes items 13–25. Subscale scores are obtained by calculating the mean of the items used to define each factor (summing across item values and dividing by applicable number of items in subscale). Higher scores are indicative of greater levels of violent and harassing behaviors.

Scoring Instructions

Mild acts subscale consists of items 1–13. Severe acts subscale consists of items 14–26. Unwanted Pursuit Behaviors total scores are computed by summing the items endorsed by each respondent. A second total score, the Unwanted Pursuit Behavior Severity Index, can be created by only including those items that were reported to have had a negative impact on the respondent. These negative unwanted pursuit behaviors are then weighted by the frequency report. The severe acts (items 14–26) are double-weighted. Note that negative response is not assessed for items 14–26.

Scoring Instructions

Parallel school and work items are combined. If an abuser has used a tactic to interfere with a victim's work or school participation, the item is scored as "1." If an abuser has not used a tactic to interfere with either work or school participation, then the item is scored as "0." Two subscales are created from the 12 items. The Restraint Tactics subscale includes items 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9. The Interference Tactics subscale consists of items 1, 2, 3, 10, 11, and 12. Items within each subscale are summed and then the subscale mean is obtained by dividing the summed score by the applicable number of items.

Higher scores indicate greater levels of restraint and interference.

Scoring Instructions

Physical abuse items include 6, 7, 14, 18, 20, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, and 30 (item 21 is not included in subscale computation). The mean score of these items is computed by summing the point values given in response to each item in the subscale and dividing by the applicable number of items. Higher scores are indicative of greater levels of physical abuse perpetration.

E4. Revised Conflict Tactics Scales (CTS-2)

No matter how well a couple gets along, there are times when they disagree, get annoyed with the other person, want different things from each other, or just have spats or fights because they are in a bad mood, are tired, or for some other reason. Couples also have many different ways of trying to settle their differences. This is a list of things that might happen when you have differences. Please circle how many times you did each of these things in the past year, and how many times your partner did them in the past year. If you or your partner did not do one of these things in the past year, but it happened before that, circle "7."

How often did this happen?

1 = Once in the past year

2 = Twice in the past year

3 = 3–5 times in the past year

4 = 6–10 times in the past year

5 = 11–20 times in the past year

6 = More than 20 times in the past year

7 = Not in the past year, but it did happen before

0 = This has never happened

4. Slammed or held them against a wall	3	2	1	0
5. Kicked them	3	2	1	0
6. Bent their fingers	3	2	1	0
7. Bit them	3	2	1	0
8. Tried to choke them	3	2	1	0
9. Pushed, grabbed, or shoved them	3	2	1	0
10. Dumped them out of a car	3	2	1	0
11. Threw something at them that hit them	3	2	1	0
12. Burned them	3	2	1	0
13. Hit them with my fist	3	2	1	0
14. Hit them with something hard besides my fist	3	2	1	0
15. Beat them up	3	2	1	0
16. Assaulted them with a knife or gun	3	2	1	0

Scoring Instructions

Point values are indicated above. The physical perpetration scale score is calculated by summing the point values of the 16 responses. The mean value can also be obtained by dividing the summed responses by the number of items (16). Higher scores are indicative of greater physical perpetration. Scores can also be categorized such that "0" = no physical perpetration, "1" = 1 to 3 times, and "2" indicates perpetration 3 or more times.

Description of Measures

Perpetration Assessments
Construct	Scale/Assessment	Characteristics*	Target Groups	Psychometrics	Developer
F. Sexual Perpetration	F1. Revised Conflict Tactics Scales (CTS-2)	78-item scale that assesses both victimization and perpetration. The 39-item perpetration scale includes 5 subscales that measure physical assault, psychological aggression, sexual coercion, negotiation, and injury between partners. The sexual coercion subscale includes 7 items that can be grouped into minor and severe categories based on whether or not physical force is used to achieve coercion.	Partners in dating, cohabiting, and marital relationships.	Internal consistency (men & women combined): Sexual coercion = .87. F1. Revised Conflict Tactics Scales (CTS-2)

No matter how well a couple gets along, there are times when they disagree, get annoyed with the other person, want different things from each other, or just have spats or fights because they are in a bad mood, are tired, or for some other reason. Couples also have many different ways of trying to settle their differences. This is a list of things that might happen when you have differences. Please circle how many times you did each of these things in the past year, and how many times your partner did them in the past year. If you or your partner did not do one of these things in the past year, but it happened before that, circle “7.”

How often did this happen?

1 = Once in the past year

5 = 11–20 times in the past year

2 = Twice in the past year

6 = More than 20 times in the past year

3 = 3–5 times in the past year

7 = Not in the past year, but it did happen before

4 = 6–10 times in the past year

0 = This has never happened

Sample of 2 of the 7 sexual coercion scale items:

I used force (like hitting, holding down, or using a weapon) to make my partner have oral or anal sex.	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	0
--	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	---

I insisted on sex when my partner did not want to (but did not use physical force).	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	0

Scoring Instructions

Items can be used to create one total scale score and four subscale scores. The 7-item Restrictive Engulfment subscale consists of items 1-7. The 7-item Denigration subscale consists of items 8-14. The 7-item Hostile Withdrawal subscale consists of items 15-21. The 7-item Dominance/Intimidation subscale consists of items 22-28. Higher scores are indicative of greater levels of emotional abuse.

Two types of scores for the total scale score and for the subscale scores can be computed. One scoring method involves assigning a score of 0 if the respondent reports never having done a particular act, and a score of 1 if a respondent reports having done a particular act. A second scoring method involves using frequency counts in specific intervals of time. In this scoring method, a score of 7 is recoded to 0, and then the 0-6 point items are summed.

G5. Revised Conflict Tactics Scales (CTS-2)

No matter how well a couple gets along, there are times when they disagree, get annoyed with the other person, want different things from each other, or just have spats or fights because they are in a bad mood, are tired, or for some other reason. Couples also have many different ways of trying to settle their differences. This is a list of things that might happen when you have differences. Please circle how many times you did each of these things in the past year, and how many times your partner did them in the past year. If you or your partner did not do one of these things in the past year, but it happened before that, circle “7.”

How often did this happen?

- | | |
|---------------------------------|--|
| 1 = Once in the past year | 5 = 11–20 times in the past year |
| 2 = Twice in the past year | 6 = More than 20 times in the past year |
| 3 = 3–5 times in the past year | 7 = Not in the past year, but it did happen before |
| 4 = 6–10 times in the past year | 0 = This has never happened |

Scoring Instructions

There are 6 subscales. The Approach Behavior subscale consists of items 1, 2, 3, 12, and 13. The Surveillance subscale consists of items 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 10, 11, and 18. The Intimidation subscale consists of items 9, 14, 15, 16, and 17. The Harm-self subscale consists of items 25, 31, and 38. The Verbal Abuse and Mild Aggression subscale consists of items 19, 20, 21, 27, 32, 34, and 39. The Extreme Harm subscale consists of items 22, 23, 24, 26, 28, 29, 30, 33, 35, 36, 37, 40, and 41. The first three less violent subscales (Approach, Surveillance, and Intimidation) are scored by taking the mean of the summed item responses (summing values of items and dividing by applicable number of items in subscale). To score the items in the last three more violent subscales (Harm-Self, Verbal Abuse and Mild Aggression, and Extreme Harm) item responses are dichotomized (1=1; 2, 3, 4, 5=2). The means of the sums of the dichotomized items are then computed by dividing the summed scores by the number of applicable items. Higher scores indicate greater levels of stalking behaviors.

H3. Relational Pursuit

People often pursue intimate relationships without realizing that the person being pursued does not want such a relationship. This pursuit may intend friendship, or romantic intimacy, or perhaps just recognition. In addition, this pursuit may involve behaviors that do not appear in normal circumstances to be intimate, such as invading privacy, intruding into someone's personal life, making threats (e.g., "if you don't go out with me, I'll kill myself"), or just refusing to let go. We are interested in finding out if you have ever pursued a relationship with a person in ways that person did not want, and what kinds of actions you engaged in.

In your lifetime, how often, if at all, have you ever persistently pursued someone over a period of time for the purpose of establishing some form of intimate relationship that this person did NOT want, by . . .

Scoring Instructions

Mild acts subscale consists of items 1–13. Severe acts subscale consists of items 14–26. Unwanted Pursuit Behaviors total scores are computed by summing the items endorsed by each respondent. A second total score, the Unwanted Pursuit Behavior Severity Index, can be created by only including those items that were reported to have had a negative impact on the respondent. These negative unwanted pursuit behaviors are then weighted by the frequency report. The severe acts (items 14–26) are double-weighted. Note that negative response is not assessed for items 14–26. Higher scores indicate greater levels of unwanted pursuit behaviors.

Glossary

Construct: An unobserved characteristic on which people vary and which scales are intended to measure.

Intimate partner violence (IPV): Actual or threatened physical, sexual, psychological, emotional, or stalking abuse by a current or former spouse (including common-law spouses), dating partner, or boyfriend or girlfriend. Intimate partners can be of the same or opposite sex. Intimate partners may or may not be cohabiting.

Reliability: The extent to which a scale's items consistently measure the same construct and are responded to similarly over time by the same individual.

Internal consistency reliability: Internal consistency reliability is typically measured using Cronbach's alpha coefficient, which assesses the degree to which responses to items of a scale are correlated. Scores can range from 0 to 1.0, with higher scores reflecting greater homogeneity among the items. A general guideline to evaluating the adequacy of alpha coefficients is that scores greater than or equal to .80 reflect "exemplary" internal consistency reliability, scores ranging from .70 to .79 indicate "extensive" internal consistency reliability, scores ranging from .60 to .69 indicate "moderate" internal consistency reliability, and scores less than .60 reflect minimal reliability (Robinson et al. 1991).

Test-retest reliability: The extent to which an individual's responses on a scale provided at one point in time correlate with his or her responses on the same scale at another point in time.

Sensitivity: The proportion of all "true" cases in a target population that are correctly identified by a particular scale.

Validity: The extent to which a scale measures what it is supposed to measure.

Construct validity: The extent to which a scale's items measure the hypothesized underlying construct. There are two aspects of construct validity: convergent validity and discriminant validity.

Convergent validity: The extent to which responses on a scale are correlated to responses on another scale that assess a similar underlying construct.

Discriminant validity: The absence of a significant association between two scales that are hypothesized to assess different constructs.

Criterion-related validity: The extent to which responses on a scale correspond to, are related to, or predict the relevant behavior, which is termed the criterion.

Factorial validity: Shown with factor analysis when the items of interest load on the same factor and do not load with items that are designed to measure a different construct.

Content validity: The extent to which a scale's items reflect the content domain for the construct they are intended to measure.
